In Sook Kim (b. 1969) creates photographs that deal with social phenomena and the portrayal of urban isolation. Her provocative works are composed of digitally processed materials and elaborate photo shoots. Each room in Saturday Night was staged and captured in a production studio and then digitally placed into an image of the facade of the Hotel Düsseldorf. The vignettes are inspired by stories from the local newspaper and the artist herself can be found in the center window of the top floor of the hotel.

Born in Pusan, South Korea, Kim left Korea at age 31 to study at the Düsseldorf Art Academy under Thomas Ruff. She has exhibited at noteworthy galleries and museums worldwide including Kunst Raum in Essen, Germany, RX Gallery in Paris, France, Doosan Art Center in New York, U.S.A., and Ilwoo Space in Seoul, Korea. Kim currently lives and works in Düsseldorf, Germany.
